An Unpublished Poem by Halleck.

"THE TEAR."

"On beds of snow the moonlight slept,
And chilly was the midnight gloom,
When, by the damp grave Mary wept;
Sweet maid! it was her lover's tomb.

A warm tear gush'd, the wintry air
Congealed it as it flow'd away:
All night it lay an ice drop there,
At morn it glitter'd in the ray.

An angel wandering from his sphere,
Who saw this bright, this frozen gem,
To dew-ey'd Pity brought the tear
And placed it in her diadem."

Boiled Potatoes Glorified.

A New York paper suggests that the young ladies of Vassar college, having successfully wrestled with Greek roots, now turn their attention to the art of boiling potatoes. To boil a potato properly is thought a very simple affair, and yet there is not one table in 50 where they appear in that perfection which makes a potato "boiled with its jacket on," one of the most delicious of esculents. People who do not know what a boiled potato is, in that high state when it appears smoking from the pot, and bursting like a cotton pod, into mealy whiteness, neither too wet nor too dry, but always piping hot as it is stripped of its skin and prepared for its garnish of salt and butter, with pepper according to taste—people who do not know the boiled potato in that state of perfection content themselves with the esculent sliced and fried in grease (an abomination to the cultured palate and a terror to delicate stomachs,) and think they know what potatoes are! Next to a potato baked, a potato boiled properly touches that gastronomic economy in its tenderest region, and does not pall upon the taste though it be served at table 365 times a year. Whoever does not relish the potato boiled in the manner we have described, but must have it sliced, fried, stewed or mashed, with addition of parsley or other savory things, should suspect the condition of his palate and stomach, and consult a physician for some remedy for a morbid appetite. The Lord made the potato with a jacket on, that was not intended to be taken off until the process of cooking is completed, and all that is delicate and sweet in its flesh is preserved to tickle the palate of the eater thereof.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Mr. Tilly's Mausoleum.

Mr. Tilly, once the owner of Pentilly House, near Cotehele, Cornwall, was a celebrated atheist of the last age. He had by rote all the ribald jests against religion and Scripture, but the brillancy of his wit carried him a degree further than is commonly met with in the annals of profaneness. In ridicule of the resurrection, he directed his executors to place his dead body in his usual garb, and in his elbow chair, upon the top of a hill, and to arrange on a table before him bottles, glasses, and tobacco. In this situation, he ordered himself to be immured in a tower, the dimensions of which he prescribed, where he proposed, he said, patiently to await the event. All this was done, and for many years the tower enclosing its tenant remained as a monument of his impiety. The country were wont to shudder as they passed.—All the Year Round.

In San Augustine county, Texas, when a gentleman desires to escort a lady to church, he writes her as follows: "Compliments of Mr. —— to Miss ——. I respectfully solicit your corporal system across alluvial landscape that lies between your father's hospitable domicile and the sanctuary of God, there to hear the expounding of the Scriptures." The maiden replies: "I will with pleasure allow you the exquisite beatitude of escorting my corporal system over the space of ground intervening between my parental domicile and the edifice of divine worship when the diurnal orb of day shall have sought his last resting place behind the occidental hills." Texas Exchange.

PERSONAL.

The poet Longfellow's local tax is $2,230, but one poem squares the account.

John G. Whittier says that Ralph Waldo Emerson is the one American who is sure of being remembered one thousand years.

Rev. Joseph Cook's education was a good investment. It cost $15,000, and he makes from $25,000 to $30,000 a year lecturing.

"I have somewhere pawned my wedding ring for drink," is an advertisement in a German paper. "The holder will please send me his address."

The oldest living chemist in the world is Michael Eugene Chevreul, who was born August 31, 1786, and has just entered upon his ninety-third year. He is a resident of Paris.

Dean Arthur Penrhyn Stanley is the original Arthur who won the heart of Tom Brown at Rugby, by kneeling down at his little bed in the presence of a rough crowd of boys and saying his prayers before retiring.

Only three Field Marshals survive. They are President McMahon, old Canrobert and Le Bœuf, who went into the war of 1870, firm in the belief that not a gaiter button would be wanted to supply the armies of France.

Edward King, writing from Geneva, says: "Calvin would not have his grave marked, and thus unconsciously made the fact that he is buried at Geneva more conspicuous than it would otherwise have been. The old Church of St. Pierre may really be called his monument."

It is told of Daniel Webster that he was fishing one day when meditating his Bunker Hill speech. As he pulled up a tautog of phenomenal weight and corresponding age he imagined it to be an old soldier of the revolution, and holding it up before him dangling on the hook he apostrophized it thus: "Venerable man! Thou hast come down to us from a former generation. We welcome thee to the light and glory of this auspicious day."

Garibaldi has a liking for writing letters, and concerning this taste there is told a pleasant little story. Several years ago a poor man came to Caprera, with the intention of settling down there, so as to be near his hero while gaining a livelihood. He asked Garibaldi's advice as to what he should do, as he was somewhat too old for adventuring. The [illegible] reflected a few minutes, then said: "The paper and ink sold on the island are detestable; import from Livorno some smooth paper, some good ink, and some fine pens." The man followed his advice, and, though no one on the island bought his merchandise except Garibaldi, he got enough by that to live on. Soon after Victor Hugo heard this story and ordered his writing materials from this same man, who is said to be now in very comfortable circumstances.

An enterprising merchant sends up balloon with an order attached for a pair of pants to the finder This is looking up custom with a vengeance

Rev H H White pastor of the colored Baptist church at Topeka was in the city yesterday He left for Denver on the afternoon San Juan express

Some splendid specimens of the numerous deer that are to be found in the mountains are brought to town now and venison may be had at reasonable figures

Night Watch Beall lost his watchman's whistle last evening while patrolling Nevada avenue. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the GAZETTE office.

Evening services at the Presbyterian, Congregational and Baptist churches will hereafter commence at seven o'clock instead of half-past seven. Please take notice and go early

The young people's social literary of the Congregational church will meet this evening at Mrs Hattie Wilson's on Nevada avenue Mrs. Pickett's class of young ladies will furnish the programme.

On complaint of Flemming Neff a man by the name of Diehrkop was arrested yesterday and brought before Justice Smith, who assessed a fine of one dollar and costs The charge was the stealing of a feed of hay

It is the experience of nearly every business man that he must advertise if he would succeed This being true, we offer the daily and weekly GAZETTE as exceedingly good mediums through which to reach the public

Strangers coming to town may want to know just the spot on the world's map where is located this beautiful little city For the benefit of all such we will state that we are in latitude 30 deg and 50 min longitude, 104 degrees, 49 minutes and 7 seconds

In their recent efforts to suppress the illegal traffic in spirituous liquors the city authorities succeeded in collecting fines aggregating $200. In addition to this four out of five of the persons or firms selling have promised to quit and the other will probably be persuaded to follow suit

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper and reception of new members at the Congregational church Sunday morning Sunday school at 12 15 In the evening the pastor will preach on the Duties of Brothers and Sisters Young people and children especially invited

The pastor will preach at the Baptist church next Sabbath In the morning the subject will be The humiliation of Christ extreme and voluntary Evening subject, "Humility, as illustrated in the little child, a condition of salvation Evening service begins at seven o'clock Sabbath school at 3 p m Visitors welcome to all of these services

The colored Baptist society in this city have in contemplation the erection of a handsome church building on the corner of Weber and Vermijo streets The plan contemplates a wooden building 26x50 feet in size It is expected that the citizens of Colorado Springs will give liberally towards the erection of this church building A very elegant design of the proposed structure was drawn by Mr Fred Ege, but it is expected that the plan is more elaborate than can at present be used

Another of those delightful entertainments for which the ladies of the M E [illegible] are so celebrated, was given at the church last evening We have seen much larger gatherings but seldom one where so much happiness and good cheer predominated The oysters were superb and the pumpkin pies only equalled by their New England ancestors General Wagless in the capacity of auctioneer excelled himself while Superintendent Robbins with his hand full of money, wore his happiest smile We trust that this is but one of more to follow

S C Foote and L I Lustman indulged in the pastime of shooting at each other in Lake City, on the 21st the former being shot through the neck, and each arrested for playing with firearms upon the street, contrary to ordinance

The above we clip from the Silver World Mr Foote is well known in this city

WATER ! !

Progress of the Work on the Water works

The Work of Pipe-laying

How It is Done and with what Rapidity

For some months past the cry of the people of Colorado Springs has been for "Water" It is not our purpose to review the many difficulties which have been undergone to effect and bring about this much needed improvement but will come immediately to what is being and has been done On the 10th of last month Messrs Russell & Alexander, the contractors for the water works arrived in the city bringing with them twelve skilled workmen A few days later October 15 ground was broken a short distance above Manitou and the work was fairly inaugurated From that time to the present it has been carried on with increasing rapidity and the work that has been accomplished is something wonderful

In response to an invitation of Mayor France, a GAZETTE reporter paid the works a visit yesterday and to say that he was surprised with the rapidity with which the work is carried on would certainly be drawing it mild Reaching the works shortly after 10 a. m , one of the first persons we met was Mr W B. Sherman, engineer and superintendent, who has so successfully traced the route, along which the pipes are being laid. By him we were presented to Messrs. Russell & Alexander, the contractors We found in these gentlemen none of the "kid glove element, but with "pants in boots" they mingled freely with the workmen scrutinizing the work as it progressed, making a suggestion here and giving an order there, in a manner which showed they were masters of the business For several days after work was commenced considerable difficulty was experienced in procuring laborers This was soon obviated however and at the present time the names of one hundred and thirty-five men are on the pay roll of the company Of these about a hundred is the average number at work each day There are many interesting features connected with the work, and for the benefit of our readers we will describe the principal one, namely

HOW THE PIPES ARE LAID

There is probably no part of the work that requires the attention and carefulness which this does There must also be the most perfect system, so that one branch of the work need not interfere with another In this part of the work there are eight classes or "gangs" of workmen. As we approach the works we see a long line of men At the head of this line are the teamsters or plow men who break the ground in two furrows Following them are the diggers, each provided with a pick and shovel who leave behind them a trench some eighteen inches deep Close at their heels come the pipe layers A portion of this gang are engaged in placing the pipe along the side of the trench where they are taken in charge by others who lower them into place Next comes the "bell hole digger" whose business it is to enlarge the trench about the joints of the pipe to facilitate caulking The fifth class are the "gaskers" Their business is to caulk each joint with rope They are followed by the "roll men" this part of the pipe joining is quite an interesting one A roll of moist clay is put around the pipe close to the "bell" or mouth of the one to which it is to be joined leaving a small aperture on the top Into this is poured melted lead, which fills the crevices between the pipes making a perfect joint To make assurance doubly sure, the caulkers or seventh gang finish the process of caulking by driving the lead firmly into the joint Lastly come the fillers in, with their horse scrapers throwing the earth back into the trench and completing the process of pipe laying

To give some idea with what rapidity the work is carried on we will cite the work accomplished last Wednesday, namely, 3312 feet considerably over half a mile There has already been laid 2300 feet of 10 inch pipe 12,360 feet of eight inch and 3100 feet of six inch or ex[illegible] four and a half miles of pipe Taking into consideration the difficulties which attended the start, this may be considered very rapid work There yet remains 2100 feet of pipe to be laid above Manitou which will complete the pipe laying west of the reservoir This will probably be finished to night Next will be commenced the laying of the pipe from the reservoir This will consist of 1000 feet of 12 inch pipe 1578 feet of 10 inch pipe 5[illegible] feet six inch 27,961 of four inch and 10,170 of three inch or seven nine and a quarter miles of pipe A portion of the pipe was found to be in very bad condition, especially the eight inch pipe received from H R Smith & Co of Columbus Ohio It was found necessary to cut considerable of this owing to the cracks and holes which it contained There can be no excuse for this for were each pipe tested as the contract calls for such flaws could be easily detected There was also some difficulty experienced in getting the right of way over certain sections of land in the vicinity of Colorado City, a few parties making objections on the ground that they should be paid for the use of their land They were soon brought to time however by a proposition to change the route With the exception of one case where a compromise was effected by the payment of $125 they have all been amicably adjusted We next turned our attention to

THE RESERVOIR

This is admirably located at the head of a gulch which makes it necessary to enclose but one side In this way making a saving to the city of several thousand dollars The main wall which is being built is 203 feet long, 12 feet thick at the bottom and 6 feet at the top, and 22 feet high Twenty two feet outside of the main wall has been built a retaining wall 5 feet thick and 8 feet high The space between the two walls will be filled with earth When completed the reservoir will have a capacity of 3 000 000 gallons Should this at any time be found insufficient for the supply of our city, by adding an additional ten feet to the heighth of the main wall the capacity will be increased to over seven millions of gallons

The contractors for the reservoir, Messrs Whipple & Eaton, are pushing the works forward as rapidly as good work will allow Too much cannot be said in praise of our city engineer, Mr W B. Sherman He is on the ground from early morning till late at night, giving it his entire time and attention In more than one instance he has saved the city large amounts of money by his carefulness and forethought Mayor France and his able co-workers, the aldermen, are also untiring in their [illegible] to make the thing what it is sure to be a success Messrs Russell & Alexander, as we have before stated, are masters of their business In Burlington, Iowa, where they laid over thirteen miles of pipe, the best of satisfaction was given The press of that city speak in the highest terms of the work and the manner in which it was done, and we feel assured that Colorado Springs will have cause to rejoice at securing their services Of course it is impossible to state the exact date of the completion of the works But all in good time
